

The International Journal of Clinical and Experimental Pathology (IJCEP, ISSN 1936-2625) is an open access online journal dedicated to publication of original work in all areas of clinical, anatomic and experimental pathology. IJCEP also welcomes papers from other fields related to the study of human disease, such as immunology, biochemistry and molecular biology. IJCEP is primarily devoted to original clinical, translational and experimental research papers, but will also publish editorials, review articles, case reports, letters to the editors and meeting reports. The goal of IJCEP is to provide a free forum for rapid dissemination of clinical and basic observations that will enhance our understanding, diagnosis and management of human disease.

SUBMISSION OF MANUSCRIPTS

General Policy

All manuscripts are submitted with the understanding that they have not been published elsewhere (except in the form of an abstract or as part of a published lecture or thesis) and are not currently under consideration for publication by another journal. It is the responsibility of the corresponding author to ensure that all authors have contributed to, read and approved the final manuscript for submission. The authors should keep a copy of manuscript submitted in case of revision, rejection, loss or damage. Receipt of manuscript will be acknowledged and a decision regarding acceptance made as soon as possible. Accepted manuscripts may be subject to editorial revision without notice.

Peer Review Policy

All manuscripts are subject to peer review and are expected to meet the rigorous standards of academic excellence. The authors should provide up to five potential peer reviewers with detailed contact information including e-mail address. These should be experts in their field of study, who will be able to provide an objective assessment of the manuscript. If not provided, potential reviewers will be identified by their publication record or recommended by the Editorial Board members. Recommended reviewers who have been a coauthor with the corresponding author within five years prior to manuscript submission will not be used.

Copyright Policy

The authors retain the copyright of their original work, which is released under the "Creative Commons Attribution License", enabling the unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction of the published article in any medium, provided that the original work is properly cited. If the manuscript contains a figure or table reproduced from a book or another journal article, the authors should obtain permission from the copyright holder.

Use of Human Tissue and/or Animal Policy

Experiments involving human subjects should be in accord with the ethical standards established by the institution or in accord with the Helsinki Declaration of 1975, or the guidelines of Office for Human Research Protections (OHRP) Human Subject Protections. For studies involved human subjects, when informed consent has been obtained it should be indicated in the manuscript.

Experiments involving animals should follow the institution or the National Research Council guide for the care and use of laboratory animals.

Units and Abbreviations

System International (SI) units should be used for all measurements. All abbreviations should be explicitly defined at their first occurrence except for those internationally acceptable.

Disclaimer

While the advice and information in the article are believed to be true and accurate on the date it is going to press, neither the authors nor the editors can accept any legal responsibilities for any errors or omissions that may be made. The publication makes no warranty, expressed or implied, with respect to the materials contained within.

PREPARATION OF MANUSCRIPTS

Manuscripts that do not follow IJCEP format will be returned to the corresponding author. All manuscripts should be written in standard grammatical English using computer software, arranged in the following order and saved as single DOC (Word) file plus a PDF file:

1. cover letter
2. title page
3. abstract and keywords
4. main text
5. acknowledgements, if any
6. references
7. tables, if any
8. figure legends, if any
9. figures, if any

Cover Letter

The cover letter should include name, degree, address, telephone, fax and email of the corresponding author. A statement that all authors have contributed to, read and approved the final manuscript for submission should be included if there are multiple authors. Any editorial or financial conflict of interest (e.g., consultancy, stock ownership, equity interests, patent or licensing agreements) should be clearly disclosed in the cover letter. The disclosure statement must be submitted upon the acceptance.

Title Page

The title page should include:

1. a concise title;
2. first name, middle initial, and last name of each author, along with his or her highest academic degree; and
3. name of the department and institutional affiliation of each author
4. sources of financial support for the work

Abstract and Key Words

The abstract should not exceed 250 words that concisely summarize the study's purpose, significant findings and conclusions. Include up to 6 key words or phrases at the end of the abstract.

Main Text

The main text should include Introduction, Materials and Methods, Results and Discussion. The Introduction should be succinct, clearly stating the purpose and rationale of the study. In Materials and Methods, the procedures should be described in sufficient detail to allow duplication by an independent observer. Results and Discussion may be combined or divided. They should be written concisely and logically with emphasis on novel findings.

Acknowledgements

All acknowledgements (if any) should be included at the end of the main text before references and may include grant and administrative support.

References (Please download EndNote X Style for IJCEP from the journal website)

Reference published in IJCEP should begin on a new page, be double-spaced and numbered in order of citation in the text, including citations in tables and figure legends. Complete author citation is required (use of "et al" is not acceptable). References should conform to the style of the Journal. Examples follow:

Journals: [1] Krishnan B and Truong LD. Renal epithelial neoplasms: the diagnostic implications of electron microscopic study in 55 cases. Hum Pathol 2002; 33: 68-79.

Books: Fishman AP: Pulmonary Hypertension and Cor Pulmonale. Pulmonary Diseases and Disorders. Edited by Fishman AP. New York, McGraw-Hill, 1988, pp. 999-1048

Web sites: Cite in text only with an active weblink and keep such links to a minimum.

In press: To be used only for papers accepted for publication. Cite as for journal with (in press) in place of volume and page numbers.

Submitted papers/unpublished data: Cite in text only.

Tables

All tables should be cited consecutively in the main text by Arabic numbers (Table 1, Table 2, etc). Type each table with a descriptive title on a separate page after the references. Provide explanations for any nonstandard abbreviations in footnotes to the table.

Figure Legends

Figures

All figures should be cited consecutively in the main text by Arabic numbers (Figure 1, Figure 2, etc). All figures must be submitted in TIFF or JPEG format as separate files labeled with the corresponding numbers. Photographs of a person should render them unidentifiable or include their written permission.

Supplemental data: From Volume 3, 2010, supplemental data is no longer allowed. Author should keep any such data and provide to readers if requested.

Publication Fees

International Journal of Clinical and Experimental Pathology is an open access journal which provides instant, worldwide and barrier-free access to the full-text of all published articles. The publishing fee allows the publisher to make the published material available for free to all interested online readers.

The publishing fee is $100/page, which will be billed to the corresponding author. Editorial board members will receive a 30% discount. There is no extra charge for color figures. Authors who do not have appropriate funds can apply to have the fee waived by submitting a letter signed by the departmental chair to state such a fact. Editorial decisions are not contingent upon the ability to pay publication charges.
